Parkinson's Support Services

Support Services for People with Parkinson's

Parkinson's is a progressive neurological condition which can be managed holistically with medication, exercise and nutrition. A Parkinson's Nurse Specialist Service offers phone support on 1800 644 189 (free call from country areas). If people are planning a visit to the city they can make an appointment to see a Parkinson's Nurse Specialist to coincide with their visit.

Education for the person with Parkinson's and their partner or family carer is important in coping with the challenges Parkinson's may present along the way.

Parkinson's WA has a wide range of printed educational resources, on topics such as; swallowing, communication, medications, hospitalisation, driving and mobility. These are available either by visiting the Parkinson's WA website: www.parkinsonswa.org.au or alternatively, they can be mailed by phoning 08 9346 7373.

Parkinson's WA provides Newly Diagnosed seminars (for people diagnosed with Parkinson's within the last five years) at the Niche in Nedlands. DVD's of these seminars can either be borrowed or purchased from Parkinson's WA by phoning 1800 644 189 or emailing info@parkinsonswa.org.au.

For further information contact Parkinson's WA. Phone: 08 9346 7373 or email: info@parkinsonswa.org.au

Rural & remote families

Access to education

Since 1972

Isolated Children's Parents' Association of WA (Inc)

Do you receive the Assistance for Isolated Children (AIC)?

Do you have a child in primary, secondary or tertiary education?

Are you concerned about inequities in access to education in the country?

ICPA can be your representative body.

Formed in the early seventies to address educational issues in remote areas particularly, ICPA has grown to become a respected advocate for all rural and remote families and is a recognised advisor to state and federal governments on all aspects of education.

ICPA lobbied successfully for the introduction of the AIC and various State Allowances along with many other improvements in the years since.

However, new challenges constantly face rural families in accessing appropriate schooling for their children: the introduction of the Australian Curriculum; the move into secondary schools of Year Sevens; the need for better resourcing of IT; inadequacy of travel schemes; and a shortage of suitable accommodation in the metro area for apprentices.

ICPA is the only body that represents all rural and remote students across Australia.

In WA, a state council lobbies on behalf of families belonging to 13 branches from Kununurra to Esperance.

There is also the option to become a "Friend of ICPA" for anyone wishing to show support of the organization.

Help us to help you by adding your voice to our membership.

Financial difficulties? Could you use a hand with your business finances and planning? Practical help is available at no charge if you are a primary producer, fisher or related small rural business.

A qualified, experienced professional who lives in your region will join you on site to help you get control over your business finances, turn things around and build a stronger, more focused future. They will work hands-on to help you identify your financial and business options, negotiate with lenders, tap into assistance schemes, get the results you need from accountants, consultants and education, and find and get the best out of professionals in succession planning, family mediation, government agencies, and personal counselling.

RFCS WA is an independent, not-for-profit community organisation. We don't sell anything. We don't charge fees. We don't get commissions. We are funded by the WA and Federal Governments, so we can be totally focused on the needs of small and family businesses in rural WA.

What's the catch? There's no catch, but you do have to take action – don't put it off until it's too late.
